

To: Prospective Homebuilders

If you are considering building or remodeling a house, I highly recommend McCarley Construction for your project. Greg and Heather McCarley built my house at 5 River Club, Fripp Island, SC, and I have been very pleased with the project from start to finish.

When I was looking for a builder, McCarley Construction came highly recommended. I spoke with Greg on several occasions and each time he was glad to show me homes he had completed and jobs in progress. By selecting Greg as my builder early in the project he provided valuable input during the design phase. And just prior to starting construction I approached him with a three page list of questions and concerns. Greg took the time to sit down and answer all of them to my satisfaction.

Throughout the project McCarley Construction provided the expertise and oversight necessary to build my house the correct way, and, in a timely manner. All material and workmanship were first rate. If a problem arose, Greg would offer several solutions and his recommendation. When visiting the worksite, if I had an issue with something, Greg immediately took steps to resolve it. He is knowledgeable, experienced, and always helpful and courteous. His subcontractors and workers were professional and polite. The worksite was always kept clean. Heather and Nancy in the office provided great assistance guiding me through the numerous selections and decisions involved with building a new house.

Since the house has been completed, any outstanding issues have been promptly resolved. I feel confident that if any problems arise in the future, the McCarleys will stand by their work.

One of the most important steps in building a custom home is selecting a good builder. In that respect, I was very fortunate. Because of the McCarleys I have enjoyed the construction project and have a home of which I can be proud.
